More Ways to Experience Our Blog

2026-07-29

Not everyone enters an idea in the same way. Some of us prefer to read quietly, some learn by listening, and others connect most deeply through video.

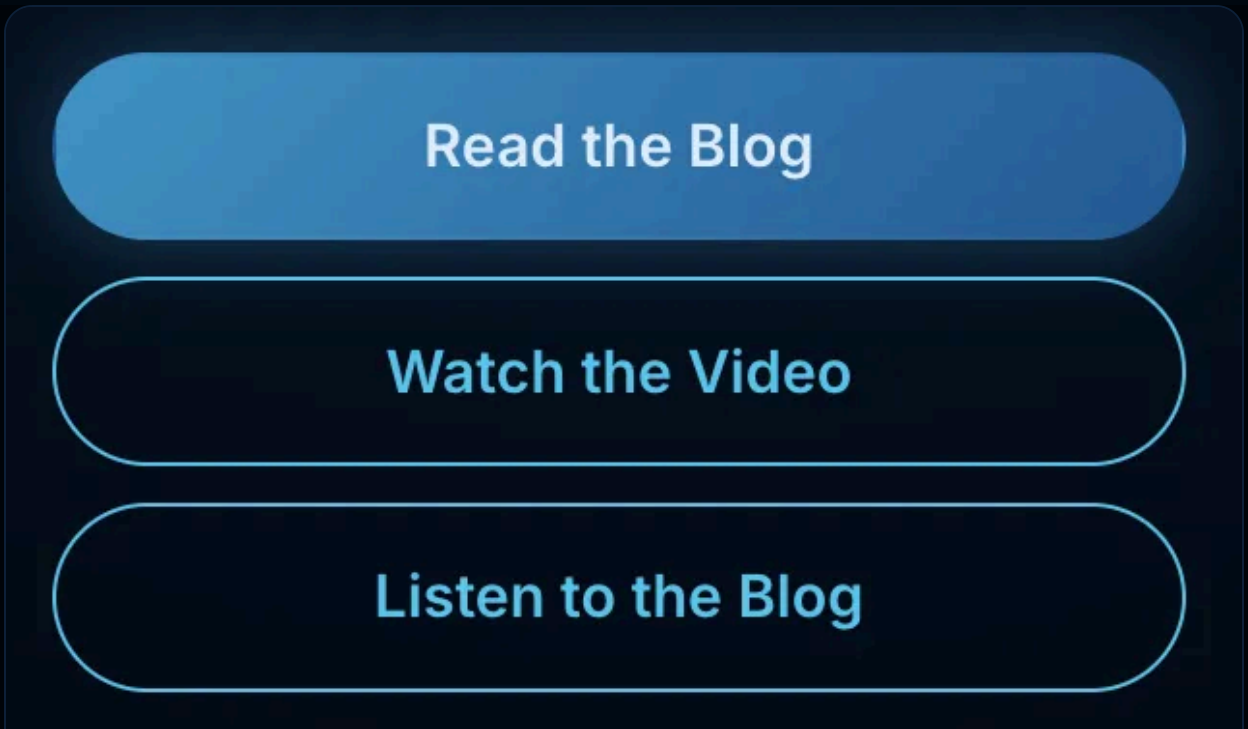
That is why House of Mystics blog posts are beginning to open through more than one doorway—written articles, videos, audio narrations, podcasts, music, PDFs, and supporting resources.

Choose the format that meets you where you are.

---

01 · On the Blog Preview Page

Before opening a post, its preview card may offer up to three ways to begin:



The preview card offers a clear choice before you enter.

Read the Blog — Opens the complete written article.

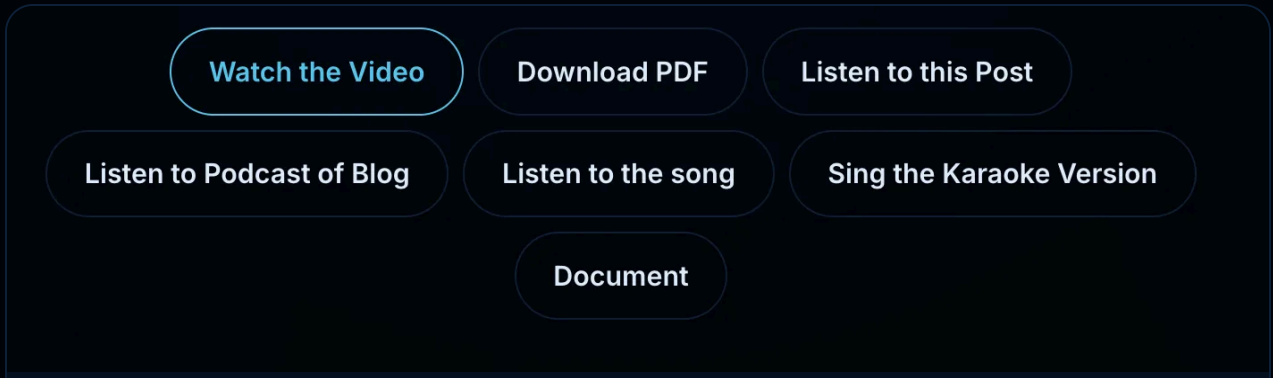
Watch the Video — Opens a video version for those who would rather watch than read.

Listen to the Blog — Opens an audio narration for those who would rather listen.

---

02 · Inside a Blog Post

Once inside, the navigation can expand to include any of the options below, depending on what companion material is available for that article.



Inside a post, the navigation brings every available format together.

Watch, read, or listen

Watch the Video — Opens the video version of the post.

Download PDF — Opens a downloadable edition hosted on the Internet Archive.

Listen to the Blog — Opens the audio narration.

Listen to Podcast — Opens a podcast episode created from the post.

Explore the companion material

Listen to the Song — Opens the related song directly on YouTube.

Sing the Karaoke Version — Opens the karaoke version directly on YouTube.

Document — Downloads a supporting guide, worksheet, or resource mentioned in the post.

One idea. More than one doorway.

We hope these additions make every post easier to explore while giving each of us the freedom to choose the experience that works best.

We are all built differently. The House should have room for all of us.

Much love, and have an awesome day!